

Announcing the 2019 NIH Green Labs

The NIH Green Labs Program recently concluded its certification process for the 2019 calendar year. The results show promising growth from the inaugural year in 2018. The biggest change to the 2019 program was the inclusion of Bronze, Silver and Gold levels of certification, which represent greater levels of achievement. This year, the Green Labs Program received 31 applications, up from 18 in 2018. Of the 31 labs that received certification, 22 labs achieved the Silver level and 8 labs achieved the Gold level, and one withdrew the application. These labs spanned 11 Institutes/Centers (ICs), which is also up from last year (9). This year has introduced new ICs to the Green Labs Program, including NICHD, NIDCR, NIEHS, NIMH and NEI. There were also strong repeat performances from NCI, NIDDK, NHGRI, NIAID, NIDCD and NHLBI. The 2019 Green Labs Program has helped expand initiatives across the NIH, such as adding the Styrofoam Take-Back Program to Building 49 and providing Building 33 the resources to begin recycling soft plastic materials. Please join us in congratulating the 2019 NIH Green Labs! Don't forget the 2020 Green Labs Program will open soon! Please contact Ms. Bani Bhattacharya, the Green Labs Program Manager, for more information.
